English-language version (if not already included) of at least that portion of the Communication indicating the degree of relevance found by the foreign patent office.

Applicant submits the following translation of the pertinent parts of Japanese Patent Publication JP 6-23091A that was cited by the Japanese Examiner in the Office Action:

[0008] It is an object of the invention is to provide a gaming machine having a function of limitedly displaying management data such as a slump graph to a player.

[0016] A gaming machine 1 is a slot machine provided with an LCD screen 2 at a front face thereof. Gaming images 2a corresponding to the rotary drums are displayed on the LCD screen 2. When a coin (gaming value) is inserted into a not-shown slot, a game is activated. Coins are paid out when the player hits the predetermined combination.

[0017] In addition to the LCD screen 2, the slot machine 1 is provided with identification signal inputting means 7, display selecting means 8, display switching means 9, screen switching means 10 and a start lever 10a.

[0020] Memory means 4 receives an output from timer means 6 at a predetermined time interval to store the management data with a time stamp. The memory means 4 is actually constituted by a semiconductor memory and a controller (CPU) for controlling the semiconductor memory, for example. Alternatively, the memory means 4 may be constituted by a memory controlled by control means 5.

[0031] In accordance with the actuation of the display selecting means 8 or the like, desired data among the management data stored in the memory means 4 is displayed on the LCD screen 2 in the various ways as described the above. That is, when the game is not played, a part of the management data which is allowed to be disclosed to the player is displayed under the control of a processor 16. Even during the play of the game, when the preset identification signal (an infrared signal) is not inputted from the identification signal inputting means 7, the management data is displayed with no limit in accordance with the above described operations of the processor 16 and an identification judgment section 17.
